

The GGS is a nationally recognized private university funded by Dieter Schwarz Foundation. It focuses on part-time Master's programs in management and law and provides continuing education programs for managers.

GGS Business School in cooperation with one of the leading companies in the Retail Food sector, LIDL, has created a joint program to complete your training attending our MBA or MSc programs while developing your professional career in Germany. We are looking for young graduates who want to join us:

We offer:

➤ Job: Project Manager Recycling Logistics

Support to the Lidl subsidiaries in matters of disposal/recycling logistics, from a standpoint of both strategic and legal.

Your Tasks:

Carrying out their own responsibility negotiations with international recycling and waste disposal companies. Development and implementation of suitable monitoring indicators derived from the recommendations. Development of new logistics concepts regarding transportation, recycling and marketing disposal. Continuous development and improvement of existing processes.

Profile:

You will have a first degree in Business Administration or Engineering and also logistical and technical knowledge. You will need to be fluent in German and English (B2 for MBA program and C1 for MSc Program). You will be easily adaptable to move to other countries in Europe and will have logistics expertise in the retail sector and project management. You are a good team player and have a "hands on" mentality.

➤ Master's programs:

- MBA in General Management
- MSc in Business Management

Our program offers a job in LIDL headquarters and the assistance, entirely financed, to one of its Master.
